11,750 Turkeys To Feed Uncle Sam's Lads Thursday

Every Army Post and CCC Camp in Fourth Corps Area to Have Feast

Atlanta, Ga., Nov. 25.—A tradition as old as the Army itself will be "carried on" at every Army Post and CCC Camp located in the eight Southeastern States comprising the Fourth Corps Area when on Thursday Noon every man in the fighting forces of Uncle Sam and the lads in the CCC sit down to a meal fit for a king.

According to an announcement made by Major General George Van Horn Moseley, Commanding the Fourth Corps Area, the Quartermaster has contracted for and will deliver to the various organizational messes, some 11,750 choice turkeys weighing from 8 to 21 pounds each.

The Company Mess Sergeant, who, under supervision of the Mess Officer, provides three well rounded and balanced meals per day on a daily allowance of approximately 50 cents a man, has a lot to be thankful for on Thanksgiving Day. Congress, realizing that an Army fights on its stomach, has provided an additional allowance for each soldier on Thanksgiving and X-mas. When "Chow Call" is sounded next Thursday and the Mess Sergeant, who has been the busiest man in the organization for the past few days, beamingly opens the doors to the Company Mess Halls, the following typical repast will be spread out in tempting style for approval:

Menu for Thanksgiving Dinner of Company "G," 22d Infantry, Ft. McPherson, Ga.:
Oyster Stew Cracker-tories
Stuffed Olives Celery

Roast Turkey
Cranberry Sauce Roast Pork
Giblet Gravy
Mashed Potatoes Candied Potatoes
Creamed Peas Creamed Corn

Parker-house Rolls Bread Butter

Old soldier and Recruit share equally in the bountiful meal provided for this festive occasion. At Fort Moultrie, S. C., Fort McPherson, Ga., Fort McClellan, Ala. and Fort Bragg, N. C. will be assembled some 500 recruits who under present orders will sail from Charleston, S. C. for Hawaii on the transport CHATEAU THIERRY on or about December 10, 1937.

The enrolled member of the CCC is authorized the same allowance for subsistence as the Regular Army soldier and elaborate feasts will be the order of the day at 280 camps located in the Fourth Corps Area.

The Recruiting drive to secure sufficient enlistments in the Regular Army to bring all Fourth Corps Area organizations to their full authorized strength by December 31, 1937, is progressing very nicely, General Moseley stated. Vacancies also available for Infantry and Field Artillery for Hawaii. Lads between the ages of 18 and 35, who are single, have (Please turn to page 3)

Milk-Borne Disease Caused By Use Of Raw Milk

Heating of Milk is a Great Factor in Preventing The Disease

Armed with facts on milk-borne diseases, Mr. H. A. Kroese, director of sanitary engineering, State Board of Health, quoted in a recent interview the newly compiled figures proving pasteurized milk the only completely safe kind.

Last year there was a total of 45 milk-borne outbreaks of disease in this country causing 1890 cases and 26 deaths, all due to raw milk. Of this number, the major outbreaks were epidemics of typhoid fever, scarlet fever, and septic sore throat.

Stating that pasteurization would have prevented this needless sickness and death, the sanitarian added a strong statement from Dr. E. V. McCullum of Johns Hopkins University.

"The heating of milk is so great a safety factor in preventing disease that there should no longer be any argument about the superiority of raw milk," Dr. McCullum says. "We have an immense amount of clinical evidence gathered from many countries which shows that pasteurized milk has fulfilled the needs for feeding infants and children over many years with no evidence of damage provided the loss of vitamin C is made good with orange or tomato juice."

"The opponents of pasteurized milk have conspicuously failed to make a case against it in favor of the raw product. The marked lessening of incidence of intestinal troubles and contagious diseases carried by raw milk through pasteurization makes it hard to understand how opposition can longer be justified."

"There is no mystery about pasteurization and explained briefly that it means the process of heating every particle of milk or milk products to a temperature of not less than 143 degrees Fahrenheit and holding at that temperature for not less than thirty minutes in approved pasteurization apparatus.

Declaring that pasteurized milk is our best and safest food, Mr. Kroese urges the liberal use of it by every person.

Thanksgiving Services To Be Held

Thanksgiving services will be held at the All Saints Episcopal Church at 10 a. m. and the Methodist Church at 8 a. m.

This is one of the days in the year that you should go to your place of worship, or to another if you are not holding services, and show your thanks to Him who creates all things and gives all blessings. We all have much to be thankful for.

Thanksgiving

To Our New Cotton Committeemen

(By W. E. Boushe)

We are about to embark upon a new program, and you on account of your particular fitness, have been chosen to represent us. Yours is a great responsibility. Many are the irregularities to be ironed out by you. In the past programs, there were two sets of farmers, the haves and the have-nots. The expression some have in the gravity, others were not. The fact that we were called upon to take an extra 10% cut, that our records might balance is proof of these facts—when you see one well satisfied with the past programs, you may be sure he was one of those in the gravity—you have the map: now which tell the tale. Just who is who, you have the acreage sheets in Mr. Cooley's office as prima-facie evidence. Those on the outside ask that you how to the line. Measure all in same measure, don't allow one man 125 pounds per acre and his neighbor 400 pounds per acre on same grade of land. To adjust all this some must give that others may have. Some who are in the gravity may resent this, but no program is fair unless it is fair to all. Just what this program will be we don't now know, but all have a right to ask and hope to expect justice.

We enjoy the social part as well as the many interesting things that Miss Wood and Mrs. Davis bring to us. Mrs. James invited ten into the dining room where each were served with a plate filled with a delicious tomato sandwich, fruit salad, pickle, crackers, cake and candy.—Sec. and Treas.

Chapel Hill Home Demonstration Club

Chapel Hill Home Demonstration Club, which has been organized for three years, was called to order November 19th by the vice-president, in the home of Mrs. Henry James. Officers were elected for 1938. President, Mrs. G. S. Woods; Vice-President, Miss Grace Childs; Secretary and Treasurer, Mrs. Charles Swindoll; Home Management Specialist, Mrs. G. S. Woods and Mrs. Griffith Shaw. We have the same president and vice-president that were elected when the club was organized. We have no bossy leaders, no slow followers, and most of all "no touch me tots." We are just one working together.

Miss Grace Childs and Mrs. Charles Swindoll have not missed a meeting in the three years. Miss Grestle Childs and Mrs. Newton Woods are running a close second by just being absent one time. It is always some unpreventable cause when any of the members miss.

We enjoy the social part as well as the many interesting things that Miss Wood and Mrs. Davis bring to us. Mrs. James invited ten into the dining room where each were served with a plate filled with a delicious tomato sandwich, fruit salad, pickle, crackers, cake and candy.—Sec. and Treas.

Letter From State Dept. of Education

We wish to extend greetings to the people of Mississippi on this, another Thanksgiving holiday season. We have many things for which we should be thankful and the holiday should be observed in the spirit which instigated its beginning during the early days of the history of our country. The people of Mississippi have been especially blessed during the past year and it will be well for all of us to take an inventory of the many things for which we should be thankful.

We wish to again call your attention to the very beautiful custom which has been observed on the Thanksgiving holidays during the past years by the schools and other organizations in making donations to the Mississippi Crippled Children's Service for crippled children's work. We feel sure that you will again respond as you have done in the past for this very worthwhile work. True happiness can be gained only by unselfish acts which aid in the happiness of others. We know of no better way to do this than in assisting some poor unfortunate crippled child in its restoration to health and happiness.

CROWDER PASS

(By W. E. Boushe)
The full name, Green Crowder Pass. In a previous article, the first in the series I have written, I mentioned the Crowder family as deserving space second to none in the early development of Grenada county. Not only were they the largest land holders ever to live here, but were active in the county's actual progress. They were the forebears of influential and prominent sons and daughters, some of whom hold important places today.

In this article I go back to the old Green Crowder plantation, to the home of Mr. Crowder Pass, himself the solitary scion left of this family who still lives on a remnant of the once vast holdings of the Crowders. Crowder Pass is a unique character; a man who in true Crowder form places honor and integrity above all else. Crowder Pass is the grandson of Dr. Green Crowder, and the son of Col. Algernon S. Pass and Rebecca Crowder Pass. Col. Pass was a man of far more than average intelligence, being a valedictorian at Oxford College, and a Col. in the Civil War. In the Civil War he was severely wounded the effects of which he carried till death. He was a good lawyer, but along with most of the better class following the war, gradually lost all he had, save the part of the Crowder property now owned by Crowder Pass and other heirs.

Col. and Mrs. Pass were the parents of five children who lived to be grown. Three girls, Maggie, Sidney and Julia, all good deserving girls, and two boys, Willie and Crowder. Willie died years ago. These two boys made indelible imprints upon my boyish mind as they were among the few companions I had in those days. They were good boys, honest to the last degree. Crowder rode a nice horse he raised himself. He loved to hunt and fish and many were the times I accompanied him. A good fish stream ran through the Pass property. This is now largely filled up and runs dry. As a boy Crowder used to make good crops, but invariably planted more than he could work or harvest without help. On one occasion when "Gen'l Green" was about to get the best of him, he came to the home and hired the Talbert boys who were my cousins and who lived in the same home with me, my brother, Tom, and myself, to clean out his crop. He paid us the prevailing wage of thirty-five cents per day. Crowder worked a long beside us and being a powerful worker, he liked to have worked us down. As soon as we were through, we all ran down to the swim hole. Crowder was much humiliated when he went to pay us by the fact that the party furnishing him refused him the money to pay off but we were not bothered, knowing him to be the soul of honor. That fall when he sold his first bale of cotton he was at our door at 9 o'clock the same night to pay off.

Financially speaking, Crowder has not made much money but he makes a good living and minds his own business. The songbirds of freedom have sung in his ears, and he is at peace with himself and the world. Surrounded by the scenes familiar to him all the days of his life, scenes loved by his parents and grand-parents, Crowder, as were his grand-parents, is deeply religious. Nothing delights him more than reading or talking the Bible. He has a comfortable home built by his own honest hand. He lives on the old place seven miles east of Grenada, far from the maddening crowd, wrapped in the solitude of his thoughts, "himself and wife" through choice. He has lived in great cities only to learn the hollowness of the great lights. Was it the spirits of his ancestors which called him home? He never tasted true happiness till he returned to the old camping ground and drank once more of the waters of the well of Bethlehem and where he says he intends to linger 'till he is gathered in to his fathers by that Higher Hand. Long life and happiness to you, Crowder Pass.

$14,000,000 Lost In Unhatched Eggs In Nation Each Year

Poultry Specialist Suggests Ways To Curb Poultryman's Lost Dollars

Eggs that fail to hatch each year bring the nation's poultrymen and hatcherymen more than a $14,000,000 loss, points out Miss Eva Leggett, extension poultry specialist of State College.

An obvious answer to the all important question of how can the poultryman secure a greater percentage of profit during the winter season is to improve the hatching quality of his eggs, says Miss Leggett. The actual accomplishment of this is not easy, but there are many hatchability factors which can be influenced by the poultryman.

One of the first recommendations for the improvement of hatchability that the specialist suggests is the greater use of free sunshine and green food.

In the experiments conducted at the National Agricultural Research Center at Beltsville, Maryland, where the breeding flock was allowed outdoors in the winter sunshine, the hatchability of their eggs increased 14 percent. This increase was shown despite the fact that the hens had previously received a diet containing two percent cod liver oil. An adequate supply of vitamin D is a necessity for good hatchability and may be most easily furnished through direct sunlight, cod liver or other vitamin D concentrates.

The effects of a deficiency of vitamin G upon hatchability has also been ascertained and recent work at the Cornell Station indicates that breeders need approximately 230 units of this vitamin per 100 grams of feed in order to produce eggs that hatch well. Additions of dried milk, dried whey or alfalfa meal tend to increase the value of a ration from this standpoint. No winter ration for confined breeding flocks should contain less than five percent of dried milk products or its equivalent in condensed or liquid form, unless a meat meal is used is known to contain enough of dried whole liver to make up at least two percent of the total ration.

The Grenada County Agent's office has been notified that Francis (Doc) Worsham, member of the Gore Springs 4-H Club, has won the State purebred pig championship for Mississippi. Doc has been awarded by Wilson Ad Company a trip to Chicago for the National 4-H Club Congress, November 27-December 4. Doc is the second Grenada county 4-H boy to be awarded a trip to Chicago this year. Glen Peoples, Grenada High School club boy, is the other to win this trip. Glen won his trip by making the Mississippi Seed Identification and Crop Judging Team. These two boys will leave for Chicago, November 27 in company with State 4-H Officials and other club boys who have won this trip.

Glen is sponsored by Mr. John Rundle, Superintendent, Grenada High School. Doc is sponsored by Mr. Roy Doak of Doak Hardware.

The National Club Congress is held in Chicago during the same time of the International Livestock and Grain Show.

For a club boy to win a trip to the National Club Congress is one of the highest awards in 4-H club work. These trips are few and far between. Only exceptional outstanding club boys win such honors. For a county to have two boys winning such trips the same year is quite a distinction.

The following Grenada county club boys have won trips to the National Club Congress: Max Timmons, Holcomb Club, 1934, J. B. Bowen, Gore Springs Club, 1935, Everett Taylor, Grenada High Club, 1936.

New Cafe To Open In Grenada

Elsewhere in this issue of The Sentinel can be found an advertisement announcing the opening of the Belmont Cafe Saturday.

Grenada's newest cafe is owned and operated by Mesdames Kate Claughton and W. J. Waldrop. Both of these ladies have made their home in Grenada for the past nine years and are thoroughly experienced in cafe management. They have many friends here.

"Our building located next door to the White Way Cleaners has been thoroughly remodeled." Mesdames Claughton and Waldrop said "and our equipment and fixtures are new and the most modern that can be bought and we believe the people of Grenada and the traveling public will appreciate our efforts to give a first-class cafe where they can secure the best of foods at the right prices."

The management invites you to visit them and see Grenada's newest and most modern cafe.

126 Farmers Inspect Cold Storage Plant

(By J. L. Cooley, County Agent)
Oxberry Bayou, Miss., Nov. 24—More than 126 farmers of Grenada county attended the "opening celebration" of the Grenada County Cold Storage Plant held on Thursday, Nov. 18. County Agents, A. E. Terry and J. O. Cook, of Tate and Montgomery counties, brought delegation of farmers to inspect the plant and participate in the meat cutting demonstrations.

Messrs. J. E. Stanley, Extension Marketing Specialist, C. J. Goodell and Paul Newell, Extension Animal Husbandrymen of State College, assisted Manager E. S. Davis in conducting the meat cutting demonstrations. The Extension Specialists also made short talks stressing the importance of proper slaughtering, cutting and curing methods to insure the best quality of meats.

Cold Rooms Practically Filled
All visitors expressed themselves as very agreeably surprised at the rapid success being made by County Cold Storage Plant. The two cold rooms were practically filled with meat for the opening celebration. County farm leaders predict that more cold storage space will have to be constructed in the near future to provide storage space for eggs, vegetables and other perishable farm products. Most visiting farmers expressed their intentions of using the services offered by the County Cold Storage Plant. To date 39 farmers of Grenada, Tallahatchie, Montgomery, Carroll and Yazoo counties and meat markets have stored 15,100 pounds of meat consisting of beef and pork. 4,592 pounds of pork are "in care" to date. Thanksgiving turkeys were also among the products in storage. County Agent Cooley and Assistant E. R. Trotman are busy members of Homer Williams' "Deer Campers" on Oxberry Bayou in the Wilds of Grenada county hunting deer to add to the list of meat placed in cold storage.

The following farm men and women were registered at the opening celebration: A. A. Allison, W. C. Martindale, A. E. Terry, T. E. Fisher, Ed Brunson, J. M. Morgan, W. D. Singleton, Preach Thomas, Johnathan Thomas, J. W. Jordan, A. W. Mullen, E. G. Mullen, Sam Allred, C. H. and E. R. Campbell, R. P. Burt, C. G. Pass, S. G. Turner, R. E. Perry, P. L. Bennett, J. A. OFFICIAL ORGAN OF GRENADA COUNTY AND CITY OF GRENADA

THANKSGIVING DAY

Thanksgiving is the time of the year, at least, that we should be truly thankful for all the good things of life. So let's mix thanks with our pleasures and remember it is Thanksgiving Day.

God gave us all we have and He gave us much to be thankful for. Grenada county has not been visited by any plague or disaster. God expects us to use what He has given us for the betterment of humanity and to show our appreciation by offering thanks to Him.

If you are out of work you might think that you have nothing for which to be thankful. If you have health, many persons who have money and work would gladly change places with you. There are few people of Grenada county, who, if they will give passing thought, can not find many things to be thankful for. Show your thanks in a Christian way this Thanksgiving Day and then be thankful for the next 365 days for the many blessings that come to you from the True and Perfect Giver.

ONE DOLLAR BARGAIN

The annual appeal of the American Red Cross was before the people of Grenada county from November 11 to 25, but it is still not too late for you to become a member.

Its work of relief has been marked by great accomplishments in the past, not only in sudden disaster has this organization come to the rescue of communities; but throughout the past year it has greatly assisted the American government to meet needs of distressed human beings. The Red Cross was on hand with doctors, nurses and medical supplies and food and clothing during the floods that visited the states above us and to the east of us the early part of the year. They are here on location when ever suffering is prevalent.

The price of membership, carrying with it a personal participation in the Red Cross service to mankind is only $1. Even in times of recession of business this is a bargain. Take advantage of it. Your membership will be worth ten times the price to you in the knowledge that you have helped those who are not as fortunate as you.

"LITTLE FIGHTERS"

Thanksgiving marks the annual appearance of Christmas Seals. Because of this, it is especially fitting that one of our Thanksgiving messages be about tuberculosis. These "little fighters" against tuberculosis have as their objective the prevention of needless deaths in America and forty-two other countries.

For more than thirty years, in good times and bad, the Tuberculosis Association supported entirely by Christmas Seals, working along with health departments, has fought the "White Plague" until the ravages of this merciless killer has been reduced three-fourths. Millions now live who would have died if the tuberculosis death rate of thirty years ago had prevailed until now.

But the fight is not yet won. Right now more than one hundred Mississippians die of this preventable disease every month, and it is estimated that twelve thousand cases exist in the State. No home is safe from such a menace.

We can think of no more appropriate Thanksgiving message than to commend to you for careful study this example of the fine educational work the Tuberculosis Association is doing.

The problem of tuberculosis requires for its solution the interest and assistance of every citizen. Christmas Seals offer a way for you to give this help. Their appearance on your mail is a silent appeal to all who see them to contribute, and you are identified as one who strives to protect the children of Mississippi from the scourge of this disease.

Buy Christmas Seals. They will do more good than many of your Christmas gifts.

TEN ACRES OF RESERVE PASTURE PROVES MOST USEFUL AREA ON FARM

Ten acres of reserve pasture has proven one of the most useful areas on the farm of George Hay, who is cooperating with the Soil Conservation Service and the Mississippi Extension Service in the Port Gibson erosion-control demonstration area.

The 10-acre plot not only furnishes supplementary pasture to protect two 25-acre plots from overgrazing and consequent erosion, but when not needed for grazing provides a good hay crop.

With a good natural stand of Bermuda grass, carpet grass, Dallas grass, and some lespedeza, which is consistently mowed to keep down weeds, Hay's pasture area carries 50 animal units, mostly on the two 25-acre plots. Held in reserve, the 10-acre plot provides three or four times as much hay, yielding from two to three tons per acre.

"This farm provides a demonstration of an excellent pasture management program," David M. Howell, of the Soil Conservation Service points out. "It not only prevents the pasture from being damaged by overgrazing, but also tends to make the pasture the cattle over the 12 months' period, with hay being fed during the winter months."

Charleston put up a stubborn defense, but was unable to stop the smashing attack of the Grenada team. The strong defensive play of the Grenada line held the Charleston team to one first down. Long gains by F. Williams, Duhard and Perkins were the features of the game.

Presiding Elder Says Grenada is Lacking in Not Having Library

Complimenting Grenada's good roads, its schools, its college, its churches, its fine citizenship and its general progressiveness, Presiding Elder Rev. E. S. Lewis said that one of the main things the town should have is a public library. Mr. Lewis was a guest at the luncheon of the Grenada Rotary Club Tuesday, Nov. 22, when he made the above remarks in a short address following the luncheon. He told of the great good that can come from having a library to which access may be had by the

Broadway Limited

New York, N. Y., Nov. 25.—For years it was a maxim of the town that everybody in the big town went back to old homestead on the farm for Thanksgiving and the poor native New Yorkers shut themselves up indoors all day for shame they didn't have a bucolic birthplace to go back to. Night clubs shut up shop at midnight and the high-class caterers were careful not to cook more turkey than the help could finish. Thanksgiving was Broadway's rest day up till 1934. . . . and then repeat. . . . on Thanksgiving eve all the folks who had ever stayed home came out and brought their pals. . . . bars ran dry. . . . the only turkey the help saw was a couple of well-polished wishbones. . . . and it's been like that ever since. . . . a holiday building itself up close to New Year's size. . . . and if you didn't know it—Thanksgiving was the all-American day long before the Pilgrims came. . . . way back when the Pilgrims' great-grandpapas were running around England in sheepskins and coats of woad—awright, blue mud to me an' you—the creeks and the senecas and all the others were sitting down to turkey, and. . . which is where we came in so let's take a look at the theaters. . . . fewer shows than ever but every one a four star hit. . . . the flops put up closing notices the night they open. . . . but the successes go on forever. . . . with 'T'd rather be right' having the edge and playing to standing room only—and that means as many standees as the firemen will let inside the doors. . . . The crowd in the orchestra cheering the cracks because they're down on the New Deal and the crowd in the gallery cheering because they're for the New Deal. . . . But as Mr. Cohan himself pointed out there are more votes in the gallery any day. . . . and Broadway's buzzing about the Eleanor Holm Jarrett-Billy Rose-Fanny Brice debacle. . . . with the publicity going to the first two and the sympathy to Fanny. . . . ain't it queer that the one who put over that grand heart-puller "My Man" should have so much heart trouble the Medicos can't massage away. . . . all the night clubs sipping and with better shows than for years and years—Spanish atmosphere's the biggest draw for the intimate places and the big Pseudo-French Revues still packing 'em in—even for lunch when there's no show but it lets you say you've been there. . . . the department of rad faces—New York high school students were asked to locate the twenty outstanding landmarks of the city—and the only one they all knew was the Statue of Liberty. . . . so the teachers are taking them on tours of the city just like tourists from out of town. . . . latest Gotham Fuffaw—the story about the Hollywood star noted for the moths in his money-pocket who dropped into one of the sweller night spots and ordered a glass of milk and an apple and asked the waiter if it would give him indigestion—so the waiter asked the captain and the captain asked the headwaiter and the headwaiter consulted the big boss who came over to the star and said "no". . . . but he had indignation just the same because the check read "one apple—5c, one milk—10c, medical advice $5.00. . . . and that's Broadway!"

The Secretary of State's department had another inquiry just a few days ago from a high school boy in South Mississippi. He wanted to know which is the oldest city of Mississippi—Biloxi or Natchez, and the names of the first few governors of the Territory and the New State.

We gave him the information. Yet, in discussing the oldest city or town of Mississippi, one has to be careful. Both Biloxi and Natchez are entitled to a share of the distinction—that is—Biloxi is the oldest settlement of Mississippi, and Natchez is the oldest incorporated town of the State.

When the territory, now occupied by Mississippi, was first explored it was owned and occupied by the following tribes of Indians: The Choctaws, in the central and southern portion; the Chickasaws in the northern portion; the Natchez along the southern banks of Grenada County.

Also Six and 48/100 acres of land, described as beginning at the junction of the Grenada-Coffeyville Road and Grayport-Horton Road, Section 28, Township 23 N, Range 5, East, and running thence in an easterly direction, parallel with the Grayport-Horton Road, 1885 feet to Mrs. M. L. Scott's land, thence North 21 feet to the Northwest corner of the Scott land; thence West 825 feet, parallel with the South line of the E. C. Hayward land to the Southwest corner of the E. C. Hayward land; thence North 290 feet, parallel with the E. C. Hayward West line; thence West 955 feet to the Grenada-Coffeyville Road, thence South 48 degrees West, parallel with the Grenada-Coffeyville Road, 400 feet to the point of beginning; being the same lands conveyed to George C. Brown & Company by A. M. Hayward and W. N. Hayward by deed dated July 29, 1929, recorded in Book 55, page 494, of the Land Deed Records of said Grenada County.

Intending to describe in this notice and to sell hereunder all lands conveyed to John S. Henley by George C. Brown & Company by deed dated November 12, 1935, recorded in Book 73, page 567, of the Land Deed Records of said Grenada County.

the Mississippi river; the Biloxi and Pascagoula along the coast section; the Tunica and Yazoo along the Yazoo river and the Choctawhatchee in the eastern part of the State.

By right of discovery, Spain claimed title to nearly all of North America, and what is now Mississippi remained under Spanish rule until 1699. On April 8th of that year, LeMoynes d'Iberville, claimed a large territory for France and established Ft. Maurepas, or Old Biloxi, and this territory was under French rule until 1763, when it came under English rule for eighteen years.

In 1716, while under French rule, Governor Bienville erected and garrisoned a fort at Fort Rosalie, just outside of where Natchez now stands, and a town was built here later, and became incorporated on March 10, 1803. Biloxi, however, was not incorporated until February 8, 1838. So, you see Biloxi was first settled 17 years before Natchez, but was not incorporated as a municipality until thirty-five years after the incorporation of Natchez.

As to the first governors: The territory of Mississippi had four Governors, to-wit: Winthrop Sargent of north of the Ohio river was the first governor; then William C. C. Claiborne, of Tennessee; Robert Williams, of North Carolina, and David Holmes, of Virginia, who was the last territorial governor, and the first Governor of the new State of Mississippi.

Mississippi has had thirty-eight different men to serve as governor, and seven of these served two terms each. These were: David Holmes, Gerard C. Brandon, Charles Lynch, John A. Quitman, John J. Pettus, Adelbert Ames, John M. Stone and Theo. G. Bilbo. Governor Stone served longer as governor than any other of Mississippi's chief executives.

John M. Stone succeeded to the governorship when Ames resigned under fire and served out the constitutional term until January, 1878. In 1877 he had been elected for a constitutional term from January, 1875, to January, 1882. He was again elected in 1880 and was inaugurated in January, 1880, for another term of four years. However, the Constitutional Convention of 1890, prolonged the term of all state officials until January, 1896, hence Governor Stone served another two years, making in all, twelve years that he was chief executive of the State. Former Governor Bilbo served the next longest time—two terms of four years each.

The State of Mississippi, thru its penal institutions, is not only one of the largest cotton producers of the commonwealth, but the penal system is one of the largest cotton producing units of the world. At the three penal farms there is an acreage as follows: 2000-odd acres at Belmont farm; about 10,000 acres at Lambert farm and a little over 16,000 acres at Parchman—a total of more than 28,000 acres. About 7,500 acres are planted each year to cotton, which this year will produce about 6,000 bales of cotton.

While cotton is the major crop 4000 acres are planted to corn and soy beans, rows alternating, and this year it is expected to harvest 200,000 bushels of corn, and large quantities of hay. These farms will harvest about 20,000 bushels of sweet potatoes and will make about 40,000 gallons of sorghum molasses. About 400 acres are kept planted to vegetables, with which to vary the diet of the prisoners. There are numerous camps or units at each farm, and every camp has its individual dairy herd, comprising about 1200 head of cattle, and about 1800 hogs are raised there each year.

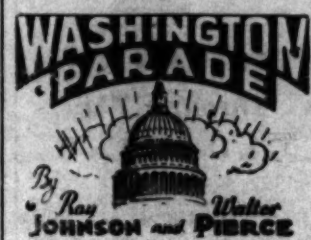

State Tax Collector J. B. Gully filed claims this week against five large tobacco companies for back taxes and penalties aggregating approximately $567,000. Collector Gully states that these assessments are based on alleged failures of the companies to obtain transient vendors licenses for truck deliveries of merchandise in various municipalities and counties of the state, and these failures extend over a period of six years. The assessments range in amounts from about $75,000 up to $145,000, and through his attorneys, Messrs. May and Byrd, has submitted copies of these assessments for collection to municipal and county tax collectors throughout the state, and if the companies fail to make

Miss. Benefit Ass'n. Now In New Home

The Mississippi Benefit Association is now in its new home located just east of their former home which they shared with Garner Brothers.

Their new building is of hollow tile and brick veneer construction and is equipped with the most modern furniture and fixtures, such as winter air conditioning which may be used in the summer as a cooling system and will permit their patrons and employees to enjoy the comforts only to be had in the newer buildings in the larger cities at this time.

The Mississippi Benefit Association's business has steadily increased since its organization due to the efficient management of Mr. H. A. Alexander and the volume of business that they are now doing necessitated them seeking larger quarters. Grenada is proud of their new home as it is truly one of the show places of the city.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 25—It is just one hundred and forty years since President John Adams invoked that part of section three of article two of the then ten year old Constitution of the United States which reads: "... He (the President) may, on extraordinary occasions, convene both houses, or either of them ..." since then special sessions of Congress have been called twenty-four times, or on an average, about once every six years.

For the first quarter of a century these emergency calls were no novelty but they dealt mostly with foreign affairs—the threat of war with France, the Louisiana purchase, the war of 1812.

Thereafter, for nearly another quarter of a century there were no calls.

Exactly a hundred years ago came the first summons to consider domestic problems and it was called for just the same reason as the one now in session—a business recession—better known as a depression in 1929 and quintely called a "panic" in 1837.

It is amusing to notice that the occupant of the White House was at that time Martin Van Buren of Kinderhook on the Hudson and that the suspension of gold payments was the point at issue.

More than one special session has been called because Congress shut up shop and went home before it had arranged to pay its bills. President Taylor in 1850 found himself left with a good sized army after the Mexican war and not a cent appropriated to pay so much as the wages of the janitor at the Arsenal. Sixty years ago Congress on two occasions neglected to provide any maintenance for the government itself, and President Hayes had to summon settlement, suits will then be filed.

Ten elections held this year for industrial bonds for various industries have been: Durant—$25,000; Amory—$50,000; Cleveland—$30,000; Grenada—$41,000; Beata 1, 2, and 3 of Jackson county—$150,000; Beata 3 of Jackson county—$10,000; Terry—$15,000; Winona—$30,000; Union—$33,000; and these added to the City of Natchez—$300,000, makes a total of $691,000 of bonds voted on and of these only one election—that of $30,000 for the City of Cleveland, failed, and even that election carried by a 59% majority, but the law requires a two-third majority of those voting, hence the Cleveland election failed, thus leaving 90% of all elections held as carrying by large majorities. In fact the total vote cast in all ten elections showed an average of 90% for the bonds and 10% against the bonds.

The Mississippi supreme court handed down a final decision on Monday of this week in the case of William Mitchell, convicted and sentenced to death on the gallows for the arson-murder of two negroes up in Yalobusha county, a few years ago, affirming the decision of the lower court and finally fixing the day of Mitchell's execution for Friday, December 17, 1937.

(By Congressman A. L. Ford) Pursuant to the proclamation of the President, issued October 12, the congress convened in Special Session at 12 o'clock, noon, November 15. The House met in its chamber in the south wing of the Capitol building and the Senate convened in its chamber in the north side. The weekly Washington summary is resumed for the purpose of giving the people of the Fourth Congressional District a weekly report in events in Washington, with chief reference to the doing of Congress.

In the Senate, after the reading of the President's proclamation and before the call of the roll, a new Senator took the oath of office. Former Congressman John E. Miller, recent victor over Carl E. Bailey of Arkansas, was seated to succeed the late Senator Joe T. Robinson.

In the House, a call of the roll disclosed that 375 of the 435 members were present, and five new members were sworn in to succeed deceased or resigned Representatives.

At about one o'clock, p. m. the Message of the President was read to each body. Usually the President delivers his message in person, but this year he sent the message up. The main topics of the message were: (1) Agriculture; (2) Labor; (3) Governmental Reorganization; and (4) Regional Planning. These are the matters desired to be disposed of during the Special Session. By special Resolution of Congress, adopted last summer, the first topic to be taken up is the farm legislation.

But Tuesday, the second day of the session, brought different developments in the Senate. Senator Wagner of New York tried to bring about consideration of the Anti-Lynching Bill. The Southern Senators objected immediately and a filibuster developed, with the following Senators making long speeches to stave off consideration of the bill: Connally, Texas; Bailey, North Carolina; Pepper, Florida; and Overton, Louisiana, all Democrats.

The House occupied its time listening to speeches of various members on various subjects, as the House Committee on Agriculture has not yet reported a new farm bill. It is expected that farm bills will be reported early next week from both House and Senate Committees, and the Session should then begin to see the real transaction of business.

it again in '77 and '79. Every President since Benjamin Harrison has issued at least one emergency call except Theodore Roosevelt and Calvin Coolidge. It was Coolidge who is reputed to have said with his New England twang, "Nothing's so bad but what it wouldn't be worse if Congress was to try to fix it."

Perhaps the most encouraging thing to remember about the present meeting is that while we have grown so big that our internal pains call for much congressional doctoring, that same bigness has removed us from the fear of foreign trouble at a time when all the other nations of the world must face the threat of war as well as depression at home. At the same time the increasingly aggressive attitude of the fascist powers in Europe and Asia and the rise of fascism in South America where Brazil is the most recent to join the ranks of dictatorial government is causing observers of foreign affairs to hint that there will come a time in the not distant future when congress will again be called to consider defense.

TOO THIN?

Two common causes of underweight—(1) Lack of Appetite—(2) Lack of Iron in the Blood (Nutritional or Simple Anemia). Jayne's Tonic Pills help both conditions. Besides Iron for the pale blood cells, they contain special tonic aids that encourage a freer flow of the digestive juices. This results in a better appetite and ingestion of food. That's why so many thin people who take them as a general tonic are happily surprised to see a gain in weight as well as in health. Every druggist knows of such cases. You can try them for ten days for only 75c.
